FONDO AMBIENTALE ITALIANO

FAI is a national, not-for-profit trust that was set up in 1975 and has since gone on to save, restore and open to the public numerous fine examples of Italy's artistic and natural heritage. It has drawn inspiration from the National Trust for England, Wales & Northern Ireland, and is affiliated with INTO – the International National Trusts Organisation. It really does seem like yesterday when, way back in 1976, FAI received its first donation, from lawyer Piero di Blasi: a thousand square metres in Panarea, in the Aeolian archipelago. Fast-forward thirty-plus years to its latest acquisitions: the Woodland of San Francesco in Assisi, the Olivetti Showroom in Piazza San Marco in Venice and Villa Fogazzaro Roi in Oria di Valsolda (in the province of Como). In the intervening years, FAI has acquired assets very frequently, so much so that today it controls 48 heritage sites, 25 of which are open to the public. Thanks to FAI, these wonderful jewels now belong once again to Italy and to all of us.

Children Action

Whether in Europe or beyond, a child's first steps in life can often be marked by loneliness and struggle. Children hold the future of the planet in their hands, and yet are defenseless in the face of illness, poverty, or political and ethnic conflict. Children Action was created to help children in need, because the first right of any child is the right to a childhood.

Established in February 1994, Children Action is a Swiss charitable foundation whose mission is to provide tangible aid to children in Switzerland and elsewhere. Efficiency is the cornerstone of all Children Action's projects, which are set up and implemented by expert teams in fields such as medical and surgical care, psychological support, teenage suicide preventative care, and many more.

Joining the TGE network is a great opportunity, enabling our European donors to financially support Children Action, while benefiting directly from the tax advantages of their countries of residence.
